

Ben >

We are looking into lots of options. This definitely falls into a gap area that isn't covered by FINTRAC's powers because it isn't money laundering and there isn't a named terrorist org (if they were named then that would be different). But we are talking with banks and insurance companies about how they can act on their own and what helpful signals we might be able to send

iMessage

